2 Are Arrested In Church Robbery

BY LIZ GOFF

A pair of Brooklyn men last week were charged in the brazen Christmas Day theft of $30,000 from a Flushing church.

Police said Daniel Almodovar, 24, and Daniel Morales, 26, walked into a rear door at St. Mel's Catholic Church during the 9 a.m. Christmas mass, where they stole a strongbox filled with $6,000 in cash and almost $24,000 in checks—donations made by parishioners during services. A portion of the money was earmarked as a donation to Catholic Charities, to be used for underprivileged children, the Rev. Christopher Turczany, St. Mel's pastor, said.

Police sources said Almodovar, 24, walked into the 109th Precinct in Flushing on December 27, accompanied by his attorney. He was questioned for several hours prior to his arrest on burglary charges.

Cops said the attorney handed over the $6,000 to police and advised them that the remainder of the missing donations were in the form of checks, which can be replaced by parishioners.

Morales was arrested on December 26 after police traced a Lincoln Navigator used in the robbery to him, authorities said.

A witness who copied the license plate number of the Lincoln identified both men in separate lineups conducted by cops at the Flushing station house, the sources said.

Morales was released on $25,000 bail after his arraignment in Queens Criminal Court on December 27, where he was charged with burglary and robbery. Morales, who tried to cover his face with his jacket as he walked from the courthouse surrounded by relatives, refused to speak with reporters as he made his way down Queens Boulevard.

Morales' attorney, Stuart Tarshis, told reporters "They got the wrong guy. [Morales] did not commit this crime."

Tarshis said his client "maintains his innocence" and emphasized that Morales has no criminal record.

Prosecutors said Richard Chitos, an usher at the St. Mel's Christmas mass, identified Morales as the man who carried the lockbox from the church basement to the Lincoln.

Court records state, "When he (Chitos) confronted the defendant, the defendant claimed he was at the church to fix the elevator. (Chitos) then observed (Morales) load the lockbox into the Lincoln Navigator and drive away."

Cops said Chitos managed to copy the Lincoln's Vermont license plate number, which he later handed over to detectives.

Turczany told parishioners at a New Year's Day mass that St. Mel's is installing five security cameras in the church and a lock on the sacristy, the room where the cash was stored in an unlocked safe.

Turczany also asked parishioners to "thank and pray for" detectives at the 109th Precinct who nabbed Almodovar and Morales.

Prior to the arrest of the two suspects, officials at Flushing Savings Bank donated $5,000 to the parish and Catholic Charities to cover the loss. A Flushing Savings spokesperson said the bank "considers St. Mel's a neighbor". The spokesperson said there are a number of Flushing Savings Bank branches in the area, and that the bank employs many people who are parishioners at St. Mel's.

"It was simply the right thing to do," the spokesperson said.

Flushing Assaults Are Pattern Crimes

BY LIZ GOFF

Queens police officials and detectives at the Crimestoppers Hotline are calling on the public to help identify and locate two men who are being sought as suspects in a recent crime spate in Flushing Meadows-Corona Park.

At least nine bicyclists and joggers were assaulted and/or robbed while traveling through the park at night between November 22 and December 25, police said.

The latest victim was walking in the park near the Unisphere at about 6:40 p.m. on Christmas Day, when he was accosted and "bashed over the head with a metal object", police sources said. He remains in a coma at Elmhurst Hospital Center, where doctors said the man is fighting for his life.

Police sources said investigators believe the as-yet unidentified man was the victim of a botched robbery attempt. It is not clear if the suspects got away with cash or valuables from the victim, the sources said.

Police last week released a photo of the "John Doe" to the media, hoping a friend or family member would recognize him and contact authorities.

Law enforcement sources said the victims ranged in age from 38 to 62, including a 55-year-old woman who was robbed and terrorized at about 8 p.m. on December 12 by a man who demanded cash and fled in an unknown direction.

The woman was the only victim not assaulted in the crime spree, which police connected as a pattern on December 12, the sources said.

Cops said most of the victims were assaulted near 111th Street between 46th and 52nd Avenues. Each of the attacks occurred swiftly and under the cover of darkness, police sources said.

"These guys make it almost impossible to identify them," the sources said.

Police describe the suspects as young Hispanic males, the first about 5 feet, 8 inches tall with a stocky build. The second suspect is described as about 6 feet tall, weighing about 160 pounds. He was wearing a gray, hooded sweatshirt during the robberies, police said.

Anyone with information on the identity of the "John Doe" victim or the suspects is asked to call the Crimestoppers Hotline at 1-800-577-TIPS. The Hotline is offering a $2,000 reward to anyone with information leading to the arrest and conviction of the suspects.
